REPORT NO.

1. On 25 December on the road to Sinmak (126-14, 38-26), 5 kilometers south of Sariwon, some Chinese Communist troops erected straw-roofed huts to conceal supplies. The huts were built on top of destroyed houses or in open areas and snow was piled on top of the straw to further the deception. The entire area, about 500 meters square, is a supply depot, containing mostly gasoline and motor oil and some food. The area is restricted to civilians and is staffed by 700 Chinese Communists.
2. On 29 December a battery of three anti-aircraft guns were set up by North Korean troops on a plateau northeast of the Sinmak railroad station approximately opposite to and east of the destroyed bridge north of Sinmak on the road to Pyongyang.
3. Early on the morning of 28 December 16 Chinese Communist tanks arrived at Sinmak railroad station where they were supplied with oil and shells of an undetermined caliber. The tanks moved in the direction of Kumchon (126-28, 38-10) an hour later.
